The diagram shows a system involving an encoder and variable shift register. The input variables are \( X.\text{int} \) and \( X.\text{frac} \), which are processed through the encoder and variable shift register. The output is \( e \), which is then fed into a \( \log_2 \) LUT to calculate \( \log_2(m) \).